

Life Without God
(Lois J. Wilson)

1. Oh, life without God is no life at all;
No comfort, no challenge, no loving call.
No arms to enfold you, no hands to sustain you,
No angels to help you when things get rough.

REFRAIN

I need you, God, no matter what,
For life without You is not enough.
Your love, Your joy, the peace You give me--
These gifts will be mine all eternity;
Your love, Your joy, the peace You give me--
These gifts will be mine all eternity.

2. No, I cannot run when life is so hard;
When things look so hopeless, so grim and dark.
But reading Your Word gives me power to stand;
As I reach out and cling to Your out-stretched hand.

REFRAIN

I love You, God, as You well know;
Through life without You I cannot go.
Your love, Your joy, the peace You give me--
These gifts will be mine all eternity;
Your love, Your joy, the peace You give me--
These gifts will be mine all eternity.

3. Now, Satan tries to kill my love for You
And make me think there's no way through.
But reading Your Word gives strength to my life
And helps me to turn from anger and strife.

4. His angels are there and fighting for me;
They're helping me onward to victory.
My prayers are their strength and their cover, you see;
To finish their work they were sent for me.

REFRAIN

So I hope you'll see, through all of this,
That in life without God there can be no bliss.
His love, His joy, the peace He gives me--
These gifts will be mine all eternity;
Amen, Amen, Amen!
